

Bio-Data

Mehrauli Group of Action India and Sadbhavana Trust (1990-)

Sadbhavana Trust was registered in 1990 by a group of social activists who had, for twenty years prior to its formation, worked with the laboring rural poor of Mehrauli in South Delhi. From 1993 to 2001, Sadbhavana Trust facilitated the work of Nirantar, a Delhi-based center for women and education, which works towards making education an empowering and enabling process for women, especially rural women in the backward regions of the country.

The Trust has broadly followed a three-pronged strategy: to work in partnership with other NGOs, organizing groups and community-based organizations; to provide a space that facilitates the evolution, growth and subsequent establishment of other organizations; and thirdly to contribute to disaster relief efforts. Concerns related to gender and equality have been central to all its activities.

The papers deal with the projects of the Trust in the Kashmir Valley and details of schools run by the organization in Jammu and Kashmir.
